ℹ Based on the given passage find out which of the statement can be inferred from the passage.

Question

The company encourages its managers to interact regularly, without preset agenda, to discuss issues concerning the company and the society. This idea has been borrowed from the ancient Indian concept of religious congregation, called satsang. Designations are forgotten during these meetings; hence, it is not uncommon in these meetings to find a management trainee questioning the Managing Director on some corporate policy or his knowledge of customers.

○ The company is concerned about its reputation with its employees

○ The company believes in fostering the spirit of dialogue without degenerating it into a positioning based debate

○ The company had some inter-personnel problems in the past due to which it felt the need for these corporate satsangs

○ All of the above

There are ways to spice up one's work. And I am surely not asking you to be an office gossip-monger. There are predominantly three kinds of people at a work-place. Firstly, the ones who work for money alone, and wouldn't devote even an iota of their time beyond the 9-5 office timings. They are usually not happy with what they are doing, unlike the others. Secondly, there are those, for whom, work is a means of getting appreciation and rewards. They are happy if they feel their efforts are being acknowledged and rewarded. They stretch themselves to finish their work on time and are an asset to the organization. Thirdly, the ones who consider work as an end in itself. They put their heart and soul into their work and never worry about rewards. I am just asking you to try and transform yourself into one of the the latter two.

- The writer is a professional career counsellor in the organization.
- People belonging to the second and third kinds are have higher job satisfaction.
- Rewarding the first and second kind of people at work place encourages them to do better.
- The third kind of people at workplace are the best assets for the organization.
- People belonging to the second kind have to stretch themselves to get appreciation and rewards.
